AMERICAN TROOPS PRACTICE INVASION

*****

American troop transports assemble off the coast for important invasion exercises. Power driven barges enter largely into the picture as Uncle Sam trains more and more men for any emergency. In a recent speech Colonel Knox warned Americans that they must "fight or perish". Using cargo nets for disembarkation, First Division troops clamber down into the new style assault boats.

The men may get wet, but they keep their powder dry as America's armed forces prepare to meet the increasing tension in the far East, with the only kind of language that Axis warmongers understand.

Land attack from the sea is by no means the copy-right of Dictators.
