

PATHE GAZETTE: 41/76. (DUBLIN)

U.S. NAVAL LANDING PRACTISE

You're witnessing the mimic invasion of New Orleans. In the face of an attack by the enemy some of America's latest swordboats, tank carrying landing craft and other vessels make headway. Seems that nothing can stop the determined gate crashers. A spectacular dive attack on a torpedo craft, but she's only one of many. Quite a show for the beach crowds. The tank landing's the first they've seen and for a sham affair it looks remarkably real. Here they are, the invaders have arrived.