CARE FOR CASUALTIES.

Methods of rescue work are demonstrated by a field ambulance company of the R.A.M.C. Here for example is how a sniper who has supposedly become a casualty is lowered from his tree-top post. These are not "trees as men walking", but camouflaged stretcher bearers bringing in a wounded man.

To ferry a casualty across a river, the stretcher is placed on an improved float made with empty oil drums. Then into the river go the stretcher party to propel the injured man across.

While all this is according to the text book, practical training enables the R.A.M.C. ~~men to keep themselves in trim.~~ men to keep themselves in trim.

When a bloke looks like this, he's got a date with a pretty nurse.
