

EMIR ABDULLAH VISITS IRAQ.

Bagdad, Capital of Iraq and the ancient Arabian Nights City of the Caliphs. Its streets are lined by a crowd of curious onlookers witnessing the arrival of a distinguished visitor. The Emir Abdullah of Transjordan is on a three days State visit. Accompanied by the Regent of Iraq, Emir Abdul Illah, we see these two good friends of Britain arriving at the tomb of Abdullah's brother Feisal. The Regent is a nephew of the Emir Abdullah and consequently the welcome is heightened by family ties. A fact which finds expression in an outward sign of relationship.

Today we see the ancient land of Persia well rid of her Nazi agents and governed by wise rulers and friendly ministers. We are grateful for the help of two wise men of the Middle East.
