

SANDBAGS

Alive to the possibility of air attack, America is preparing her coastal defences. While the sands of time are running, sand for sandbags are being brought ashore. Men and girls help in the job of filling and this is the sort of thing that's going on for many miles along the coast. It's just a precaution because in these days one never knows. A precaution because one knows that one never knows.