UNDERWATER UNDERGRADS

The girls and boys of the University of Miami at Rainbow Springs are rehearsing an underwater ballet and that means tin hats. They are diving helmets that have been designed for the study of marine biology how's this for a new idean in millinery girls? In they go, best of luck. The boys man the pumps with the girls 25 feet below, they are having a look at the other poor fish that bask in the crystal waters of Rainbow Point. And so ~~the~~ to the dance. The underwater undergrads present their water frolic. A school of beauty and a school of fishes. It's a way they have in Miami.
