NEWSBRIEFS.

Another gesture of Queen Mary's kindly interest in the welfare of our girls in war industry is when Her Majesty visits a training centre in the West. It is here that, by an intensive 8 weeks course of instruction, workers in Aircraft engines construction are fitted for employment in that important branch of war-time production.

At a bomb-torn, shabby house near King's Cross Station, a memorial plaque to Lenin, the founder of Soviet Russia is unveiled by Madame Maisky, wife of the Ambassador. It was here, almost 40 years ago that Lenin worked out many ideas on which the foundations of the Soviet Republic were laid. The plaque eventually will be sent to Russia.
