L.D.F. PARADES IN DUBLIN

Companies of the 42nd Rifle Battalion are on parade and making a good show as they swing into a steady march. The men attend a service at St. Andrew's Westland Row. The 45th Rifle Battalion take the route past Custom House Quay to the saluting base. With its crowded streets and the measured tread of the troops, Dublin has an air of much ado. The Custom House is the centre of a lot of traffic.
