TRAINING HUSKIES.

New sled dog teams being tried out on the Canadian border. Great little huskies with big chests and heart of gold. On the trial they're trained to keep a stright course and if need be they keep on until they drop. Sled dog teams can go 30 to 40 miles a day during the trapping season and they can pull many times their own weight. New dogs have a tendency to go too fast but a few weeks of coaching and the highly intelligent animals move at just the right pace. For a goosipal you can't beat a huskie.
