

PATHE GAZETTE: 42-35. (DUBLIN.)

CHARITY GYMKHANA.

There's a big charity gymkhana at the Cape, besides the sun it brings out Kid Kavanagh the Crash King. As a car smasher-up he's better than an amateur driver and today there are plenty of old crooks to break up. The metal is to be sold to swell the funds for charity. The girls are not content with being pillion riders, they put on a good act. Don't worry the girls won't fall, not even for you Bertie. The hoop of fire just to warm things up a bit. A racing greyhound is matched against the car, it's the novelty high spot of the show. One thrill follows another in quick succession and the spectators certainly get good value for their money and talking of money the charity gymkhana means a grand turnover.