LATEST ARRIVALS.

British naval ratings and a contingent of United States Marines form a guard of honour on the arrival by plane of Admiral Stark, Commander of U.S. Naval Forces operating in European waters, and Mr. Winant the American Ambassador. After a comfortable crossing of the Atlantic, the Admiral sets foot on English soil for the second time. The previous occasion was as a Staff Officer during the last war. In an interview Admiral Stark has advocated "the opening of a second front". In fact, a third and fourth front whenever, wherever and as soon as we can make it. Welcomed at the microphone the Admiral says :-

SPEECH

And that is a sentiment Britain heartily reciprocates.

Admiral Stark now prepares (to quote his own words) "to get down to the job".
