

2-244000

ST. GEORGE'S DAY IN CAIRO.

The day of the Patron Saint of England is also the Regimental Day of the Royal Northumberland Fusiliers. So to celebrate this doubly memorable day a battalion of this famous regiment, wearing roses in their caps, march through the streets of Cairo with their Colours uncased and decked with garlands of roses. This is the first time the Colours of this Regiment have been carried in parade through the streets of the Egyptian Capital.

The colour party and escort, in company with the men in their tropical uniforms, march to All Saints Cathedral for a Commemoration Service. St. George's Day in Cairo was observed with an impressive parade.