

PATHE GAZETTE: 42/44. (DUBLIN)

NAVY TAKES OVER PRISON

Uncle Sam's Navy goes to prison. It's not really as bad as it sounds though. American naval men are not prisoners. They are only taking over the old prison on Terminal Island (vacant anyhow) as a temporary depot, but this time with every modern convenience. It's a new recruiting station and training quarters. Signallers flag wag while the new recruits parade, and then comes the inspection. Naval quiz - how many naval feet in a prison yard?