

ROYAL BABY CHRISTENED.

Princess Katherine of Greece and General Smuts perform the duties of God-parents at the christening of the baby daughter of the Crown Prince and Crown Princess Frederika of Greece, at their Claremont home in Cape Town. The Archbishop of the Greek Orthodox Church in South Africa officiates.

Among the guests present at the ceremony is Mrs. Smuts who watches, with interest, as the three-weeks-old South African-born Princess is baptised and anointed according to the centuries-old Greek tradition.

In addition to the godfather and godmother present, the Royal baby has ten other godparents. Among them are our own beloved Queen Mary, the Duchess of Kent, (the baby's Cousin) and her Uncle, King George of Greece. We wish Her Royal Highness Princess Irene long life and happiness.
