REPATRIATED ITALIANS.

Calling at a South African Port are the Italian ships SATURNIA and VULCANIA. They are en route to Italy, with Italian citizens being repatriated from Abyssinia, and are sailing under British escort as far as Gibraltar.

The British Government have guaranteed safe conduct for these Vessels, and all ships of the Royal and Allied Navies have been notified that they are not to be interfered with on the way....

If the Axis don't make another of their all-too-frequent mistakes, there's a reasonable chance that SATURNIA and VULCANIA will land their passengers safely in Italy. So far as we are concerned, we have done our part towards helping these Italian non-combatants to get back to their homeland....Unlike some people, we we give out word, it can be relied upon.
