

CHINA'S MODERN ARMY.

Military Parade in Changtu the Capital of the Province of Szechwan to commemorate the 31st Anniversary of the Chinese Revolution and the birth of the Chinese Republic.

General Chang Chun the Governor sees Students of the Central Military Academy proudly displaying the results of eighteen months ~~xxx~~ training. The academy has and still is the foundation of the modern chinese army. Since the beginning of the war with Japan, it has been turning out highly trained men for a conflict which has now raged for nearly five and a half years.

It is seldom that we are afforded an opportunity to picture affairs in China, but the arrival of these films from Chengtu is the signal for us again to salute the fourth big partner of the United Nations.

In the world of free men China's fighting men are held in high esteem. This newsreel will always find space ~~in~~ ^{for the} publication of subjects telling of China's Fight for Freedom.
