TITLE.:- NAVY ON SHOW.

Picture.:- On the first day, over seven thousand people visited Portsmouth Dockyard to get a close-up of the navy.

A great queue of people proves that the gallant old Victory is still dear to the hearts of everyone - this model also attracted a lot of attention.

What a contrast to the Nelson, one of the world's most powerful battleships.

You'll notice this torpedo is captive -- they're expensive things you know.

Jolly Jack doesn't mind how long Navy Week lasts.

Here's a glimpse of a naval guard of eighteen hundred and five.

When the visitors have gone Jack feels like --and gets-- a cooler.

TITLE. ENGLAND BEATEN

Picture.: This is the French team-- every man looks as fit as can be, and here are the Englishmen ready to give good account of themselves.

Menard wins the High Jump for France with a jump of six feet three inches.

The Hurdles - Lord Burghley straight away gains the lead.

What splendid style he has -- he simply takes the hurdles in his stride. There's little wonder he wins this event for England -- here he is -- Number Seven.

Lord Burghley is, of course, A.A.A. Champion Hurdler.

The Mile -- Six starts, <sup>five</sup> representing each country.

Ladoumeque, French fifteen hundred metres champion, has it all his own way.--
