TITLE.:- WORLD'S GREATEST ROAD RACE.

Picture. :- It is estimated that a quarter of a million people saw this great race.

Here go the first batch -- Number one, the first in the line-up being actually eighth to get away.

The last batch starts -- and as they get under way, the later starters become enveloped in clouds of dust and fumes.

At Newtownards -- doing nearly a hundred miles an hour past Town Hall corner ---

---and so through the Market Square. They're taking no chances here -- notice the sand-bags.

Here they are at Comber -- a treacherous corner -- also with a bed of sand for any fellow who fails to take the corner properly.

At Dundonald -- Malcolm Campbell taking the corner in good style ---

Followed by a Talbot, with another on its heels --- and Ramponi an Italian competitor not far behind.

Look out ! Phew ! Our cameraman took a risk here !

Here's Nuvolari, the Italian, passing the winning post....

---to win, with two of his compatriots gaining second and third places.

Nuvolari stood the strain of the race very well indeed.
