(5). TITLE.:- NEWS FROM SCOTLAND.

SUBTITLE --- and the villagers.

When darkness fell, the people of Glamis, headed by pipers, marched up the hills to their giant beacon --

---which was ignited and very soon burst into a huge bonfire casting its radiance over the countryside for miles around, telling the world that a Princess was born and "doing fine" The preparation of this great blaze took many days -- and everybody thought it well worth the effort -- I know I do.

(6). TITLE.:-POWER IN THE LAND.

Picture.:- Think of that ! The Barton Power Station consumes six hundred and fifty tons of coal every day of the year !

Phew ! And I thought our maid was extravagant ! It is received in twenty ton trucks and emptied into the hoppers when it is scooped up by -- this endless chain of buckets at the rate of two hundred tons an hour.--

And carried across the conveyor and down again on its way --- to the ever hungry furnaces giving power to the generators.

Here's an unusual overhead view of a forty one thousand Kilowatt Generator.

And one of the Plant, which generates one hundred and forty thousand Kilowatts. If you had that on your quarterly account you'd get a shock alright. This is the switchboard which tells the electricians all they want to know -- except the winner of the big race !
