TITLE.:- WORLD'S LARGEST FLYING BOAT.

Picture.:- This mighty craft is the biggest aeroplane in the world -- she has taken no less than one-hundred-and-sixty-nine people on a trip at one time.

Here are some amazing "shots" of the interior -- looks more like a railway train than an aeroplane.

Compartments are connected by telephone.

She has seventy-two sleeping berths.

This is the wireless room, and this the outside aerial, a wonderful affair.

The chart-room is quite spacious.

You can hardly believe you're in an aeroplane -- and when you see men climbing through hatchways, well ! well !

The pilot's seat is like that of a motor car --

--and the control room is little short of marvellous.

The Dornier is going to visit England before she makes her grand bid to fly the Atlantic in the Autumn.

She looks a real juggernaut as she taxis on the placid waters of Lake Constance and --

--"takes off" with the ease of a machine one tenth her size. She weighs thirty tons and has twelve engines. Her cruising range is something over two thousand miles.

She's a splendid sight in the air and looks as safe as houses.

A graceful landing completes her trial trip over the Lake. We've certainly got an experience in store when she pays her promised visit to England.
