

(6).

TITLE.:- PUSH O'WAR.

Picture.:- "Have a wet ?" says one team to the other. "Why, certainly" replies the other. So the fun starts -- and its washing day for them all. A fine warm weather game.

At close quarters it gets a bit rough.

If you got one of those jets full in the face you'd know what water tastes like neat ! It's called "Push O'War" but it's "Tug O'War" as well ! -- the only difference is that they tug to, not from, their opponents.

Now I suppose it means another "wet" -- to keep the cold out !

(7).

TITLE. BARNET FAIR

Picture.:- With motors literally pushing horses out of their jobs, it isn't surprising that this famous old horse fair is not as big as it used to be. Nevertheless hundreds of animals come from far and wide on this occasion.

When a prospective buyer shows interest in a horse --

--it is put through its paces for his benefit.

Good and bad points are discussed, and as likely as not a transfer of ownership is very soon brought about.

I can't help feeling sorry at the passing of the horse.