TITLE.:- INTERNATIONAL TRACTOR TRIALS.

Picture.:- The present mechanical age is very definitely illustrated by these agricultural tractor trials near Wantage in Berkshire. This particular machine is cutting no less than ten furrows simultaneously.

This one is called a track-laying tractor. It is petrol driven and hails from California, --

While this thirty horse power machine also comes from the sunny West of America, It lays its own track as it proceeds.

Here's quite a different type -- this time from France -- considered to be a very effective machine of its kind.

These look like lawn-mowers but they are really petrol-driven hand ploughs.

Picturesque rustic scenes such as this will soon have disappeared entirely from the countryside; as machinery is brought more into use. Ah ! well, this is a mechanical age.
