TITLE.:- PRINCESS MARY IN EDINBURGH.

Picture.:- Workmen downed tools on the occasion of Princess Mary's visit --

--to see her unveil the commemorative tablet, thus inaugurating the housing scheme.

Many distinguished people were present at the ceremony.

Her Royal Highness receives a bouquet after having paid a visit of inspection to one of the houses.

She then leaves for the Usher Hall, there to have conferred upon her the Freedom of the City of Edinburgh.

After pausing to chat with some of the girl guides, the Princess, escorted by Lord Provost Whitson enters the Hall.

Princess Mary is the first Royal lady to have her name inscribed on the Burgess Roll of the Scottish capital. This honour carries no material rights or privileges --

--but it's a distinctive honour, nevertheless.

TITLE.:- THE SACRED COW.

Picture.:- With the nightly broadcasting of "The Situation in India" it is interesting to learn that this unique ceremony still survives. The worshippers follow the sacred animal into the water, remaining there --

--just so long as the Cow shows no disposition to return to the shore.

It's a strange Indian custom.
