TITLE.:- ROYAL GOLF CAPTAIN.

Picture.:- His Royal Highness is no mean golfer. This is very apparent as he addresses the ball. A good swing -- a click -- and away it goes straight down the fairway,

--and the gun indicates that the new Captain is now in office.

The Duke's shot comes to rest over 200 yards from the tee --

--and the ball is brought back to the new Captain, who presents the retriever with a golden sovereign, which (in case you've forgotten) used to be legal currency in Britain many long years ago.

Here's His Royal Highness with Andrew Kirkaldy, the veteran professional of the club --

--and here's the fellow who found the ball, who very proudly lets us take a distant look at his sovereign

TITLE.:- HURRICANE HAVOC.

Picture.:- I hope you have never seen anything as bad as this. I doubt if you could possibly have done, unless you were in France from 1914 to 1918. Practically the whole town was laid in ruins overnight, and tens of thousands of people lost all they possessed.

Such scenes as these can't help tearing the heartstrings of the most stony-hearted. Certainly a tragedy on the grand scale.

These youngsters have lost parents and homes in one fell blow.

The splendid workers of the Red Cross do what they can to alleviate the sufferings of the wounded. Thank heaven for these angels on earth.

This one-time handsome building simply collapsed like a house of cards, crushing to death a number of people.

They hardly know where to start in trying to clear things up -- a very big job !.

The great bridge across the Ozama River was shattered to uselessness by the hurricane --

--and this dredger will dredge no more ! Altogether an appalling tragedy.
