

135581
135581

(2).

TITLE.:- MUSEUM'S CENTENARY.

Picture. :- This looks to be a fearsome weapon, but it's really quite a peaceful affair, blowing steam onto the figures outside the Berlin Museum on the occasion of the great clean-up to celebrate their one hundredth birthday.

It's rather a strenuous kind of washing, but the grime of the city takes quite a lot of moving.

A shoe clean -- quite an effective one, too. But then of course, they've not been cleaned for years.

TITLE.:- WORLD'S BEST PLAYER.

Picture. :- A stern battle was anticipated at Forest Hills between these tennis giants --

--for Kozeluh, the Czech defending champion would surely fight hard to keep Richards from wresting the title from him.

Service by Richards opens our picture -- Kozeluh returns it and then follows one of those clean-cut rallies we usually get from really first-class players. They keep each other on the jump, but too much weight from Richards gives the point to the Czech --

--who is ranked as Number One of the world's tennis players, professional or amateur.

The American puts in some brilliant work -- splendid placings which --

--keep the defending champion on the run. Hullo ! another point to Richards.

In the final rally Kozeluh gets a grueling time, chasing backwards and forwards -- on the defensive -- something new to him. Then Richards cuts a beauty ! See that ! Well returned ! Oh, Hard Luck !

A very, very fine match -- giving back the United States of America its professional championship which Kozeluh won last year.

Great work, Richards ! You certainly can play tennis.