(4). TITLE:- NEWMARKET TOWN PLATE.

Picture:- In 1666 King Charles the Second ordered that this race be run on Newmarket Heath each October for ever.

It's the only horse-race in which women may compete with men -- and not infrequently has it been won by one of the fair sex.

Away they go, four women and two men jockeys, contesting one of the world's oldest races.

Here's "Old Dromore" coming in to win at an easy canter.

Followed at a distance by Miss Hamshaw on "Telescriptor".

Mr. Simpson, "Old Dromore's" jockey, is 60 years old.

It was a case of age before beauty, but don't think the girls let him win !

(5). TITLE:- DOG DAYS AT THE PALACE.

Picture:- The most valuable dogs in the world make a brave show at this exhibition.

Of course, they're all "dressed up" for the judging.

These are being made to look like gentlemen -- or ladies, as the case may be.

There's nothing of the "Dog's Home on January the first" about these throughbred beauties, some of whom -- --have pedigrees as long as a wet week in summer time.

This Dalmatian aristocrat is not above accepting -- or at least, sharing -- lunch with a good tempered youngster, while--

--an Alsatian graciously submits to being "done in oils"

If there's such a thing as blue blood in dogs, it's here !
