(8). TITLE.:- LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP.

Picture.:- Here they are -- all undressed and ready to go. The Lonsdale Belt is here too !

Al Foreman, the champion, is nearest the camera --in white pants.

Foreman opens with a rush which surprises, but gives heart to, Rose, the challenger -- who puts in some skilful work, gaining points in the earlier rounds.

Foreman finds his man harder to deal with than he -- --thought would be the case. In fact the first few rounds are undoubtedly in favour of Rose.

Many famous sportsmen are at the ringside -- --and excitement runs high as the fourth round -- --opens. Rose, the Bristol boy, is shaking up the champion --

--who goes into a clinch. It is thought he uses his head a little, and the referee issues a caution.

Round five provides a sensation. The challenger seems to be going almost too well -- when, BIFF ! --

--down he goes from a right upper-cut.. But he is saved by the gong.

The sixth and deciding round finds Foreman determined -- --to follow up his success, which he does. BANG ! A beauty to the point of the jaw 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 OUT ! And it's all over bar shouting.

This means that Al Foreman keeps his title and also wins the Lonsdale Belt.
