TITLE.:- ATLANTIC FLYERS RETURN.

Picture.:- A tumultuous welcome awaits the French airman -- --at Le Bourget. They deserve it for putting up their splendid performance last month--
--when they flew non-stop from Paris to New York.

Very sensibly they returned by steamer to Le Havre, where their trusty --

--plane, Question Mark, awaited them. In her, they came to Le Bourget --

--to an almost overwhelming reception by a great crowd of excited people.

Their car has difficulty in making its way through the great crush.

All along the route to the Town Hall, big crowds of cheering people greet the airmen. Here they are passing through the Grand Boulevard --

--where the enthusiasm of the crowds reaches its highest.

Arriving at the Town Hall, Costes and Bellonte are greeted by M. Tardieu, and many other notables.

The airmen have, of course, to go out --

--on to the balcony of the hall to acknowledge the -- plaudits of the people. A fitting finish to an exceptionally fine flight. Well flown, Sirs !
