TITLE. :- SCOTTISH NATIONAL CROSS COUNTRY.

Picture. :- Over three hundred of Scotland's best runners line up for the start. They make an effective start and come on like a big wave. Out of all that lot, one of them has got to win.

Well out into the country they go, with, now and again, an obstacle to negotiate. This one presents no difficulties,--

--although a bumped head or two wouldn't have been surprising.

The race was considered to be quite an open proposition, until Simpson pulled away --

--to gain a fairly easy victory. It's an achievement --

--to win a race of this kind from a "field" of over three hundred
