

(2).

TITLE.:- LEEDS LEADS.

Picture.:- Leeds is nothing if not progressive. The new Headrow is a huge undertaking, --

--and will, when finished, be a magnificent street, eighty feet wide, cutting right through the city from east to west. It will take years to complete, and will cost millions; providing work for thousands.

Hundreds of buildings are being demolished, and sites cleared to make way for new structures. Here the steam navy comes in useful. It scoops up great spoons-full, swings them away, empties them where they're wanted, and goes back for more !

Fine new buildings are in course of erection. Already there are rising before one's eyes, --

--great net-works of British steel, forming skeletons of mighty edifices which eventually will house some of Leeds' important business firms.

Here, indeed is a city that believes that old England will soon come into her own again. No wonder they say that "Leeds Leads".