

5-124581

(9).

TITLE.:- KING OF THE HUSKERS.

Picture.:- Thousands come to witness the battle of the Huskers, when men from seven states show how adept they are at picking and peeling corn cobs. There is a thousand dollars at stake, so you may be sure competition is keen.

Each has to load a waggon full of corn. You hardly see it go as they strip it, and fling --

--it into the waggons, which follow the competitors along as they shuck their way across the plantation.

Excitement grows intense as the mounds of picked corn grow. Soon it is obvious that --

--Fred Stanek, a farmer, of Fort Dodge, is easily outstripping the other competitors, with his adroit twists of the wrists, --

--which seem to be almost mechanical.

We're not surprised, when "time" is called, and we learn that --

--he's won, by peeling a ton in 80 minutes. Good work, Fred !
The thousand's yours !