

(10). TITLE.:- PRINCE AT WEST HAM.

α Picture.:- They had to kick off before the Prince arrived. The weather was awful, and they were ~~more or less~~ wallowing in mud in less than no time. literally

It was raining hard when His Royal Highness arrived, --

--but, naturally this didn't stop him from inspecting the men of the local British Legion drawn up in his honour.

Inside the ground the players are still struggling against the slippery mud. It's a wonder they keep their feet. That's a good shot !. Ah ! Well saved, sir !

Despite the weather, twelve thousand people were present to see the match - and the Prince ! It says much for everybody that the affair was not cancelled altogether when the rain began to fall.

However they play to a finish, and Spurs win, 2-1.
