

(5). TITLE.:- SANTA CLAUS IN ZEALAND.

Picture.:- The delightful and venerable old gentleman makes his customary visit to the people of the Dutch province. They welcome him with open --

--arms - and, with open hands, too ! How hands do open at Christmas time !

A grand rush of a hundred and fifty excited youngsters heralds the arrival of Santa at the Nunnery School. It's rather rough luck on the little cripple - she's last to get there !

In Holland, the dear old man, is represented as a Bishop. Rather different, --

--to our own Father Christmas, but the -- --kiddies love him just as much. There's a little gift for each -- --one, and it is not until every youngster has -- --had something, and the supply is exhausted that, escorted by Black Pete, he sets --

--out for home. In this way happiness is broadcast to the little ones of the universe, at least once a year. Goodbye, Santa! See you again next year !
