TITLE. :- BY AIRWAY.

Picture. :- It's nearly 300 miles from Miami, Florida, to Havana in --

--the Island of Cuba, so they want to cut out the tedious boat journey --

--and "hop" to the races in something under three hours.

✓ We go with them. * In good company we leave U.S.A.

Here we are over the Cuban coast. It's Havana, the capital; and to-day is the opening of the --

✓ --racing season on the island. * Looking forward to a good day,--

X --we come to earth, just by the race-course, making a good landing.

A short "taxi-ing" run - not taxi-cab run, mark you; and, well ! --

--here we are, just in time for the big race of the day.

✓ The horses are already going out to the post. * And, now, the race ! They're off ! A good start with only one laggard.*
✓ There they go - all out for the honour of winning the season's first big race.

Kingsport, he's third ! He keeps to the rails !

And here's why ! Watch him ! See how he "pulls up" along the rails ! Come on, Kingsport ! That's the stuff ! Wonderful ! See how the jockey rises to the occasion ! Well done, Kingsport ! The honour's yours !
