

13750-C

(4). TITLE.:- SPANNING THE ALMOND.

Picture.:- Why the people of Glasgow ever want to go to Edinburgh, or vice versa, beats me - but apparently they do, for that's the reason for the new road between the -- --cities, of which this bridge forms part. ... It spans the river Almond at Newbridge, and will cut out a very awkward bend in the road.

Here's how the new project looks from the top of a 140-foot crane. ... This is the only way you can make a Scotsman look small ! ...

All the workers on the bridge were recruited from the ranks of the unemployed. ... They'll be sorry when the job's finished.