

C-252551

(2). TITLE:- CAMPBELL'S DASH.

Picture:- Here he comes, all tuned up for the effort! ...
A great task lay before him, for he had to do better than 231 miles an hour, the late --

--Sir Henry Segrave's record. ... This splendid, unassuming speed-merchant shows no --

--signs of excitement as he makes his final preparations. ... He--

--seems utterly unaware of the risks he is about to take. ...

A final tightening up, and then a -- --trial run along Daytona beach... This in itself is a flirtation with death, which would turn most men grey at the awful risk. ... There he goes - confident of success. ...

And now see this ! Like a streak of lightning he flashes along the golden sands ! ... The fastest thing on earth ! A wonderful achievement !

At that rate he could do London to Manchester in three quarters of an hour !. Must think of it !

X
He doesn't look such a fast kind of chap, either !