(9). TITLE.:- IN THE NORTHLANDS.

Picture.:- Here they come, through the bush, out for a day's sport. ... Although they're so far from civilization, these men of the great outdoors get quite a lot of 'kick" out of life. ... Fox trapping is one -- --of their sports. ... Here a trap is being set, in the hope of catching Master Reynard napping. ... The -- --time of waiting is spent in fishing. ... This has to be done through holes in -- --the ice. ... A good catch and very little trouble to land. ... A very profitable way of filling in one's time....

Meantime, Reynard has walked into the trap, and there's every prospect of -- --his fur coat adorning one of the fair sex, before very long. ..

He's a fine --

--looking fellow and represents quite a useful sum to the sportsmen.
