

TITLE.:- BOAT RACE.

Picture.:- Mr. and Mrs. London, with most of "Young London", and thousands of their country cousins are here to witness one of the most popular events of -- --the year. ... They've all got the "Blues" - light or dark!

Oxford lose the toss. ... Here they are, on the Middlesex, (or North) side of the river, with Cambridge just getting into position, on --

--the Surrey, (or South) side. ... There's no delay! All's ready!

Away they go! ... Their strokes are almost identical.... In-Out, In-Out, In-Out, In-out, In-Out, In-Out, In-Out - - That's about thirty-three to the minute! ... Not very fast, but quite good for the start! ...

It's the eighty-third race - Cambridge have won forty-one, and Oxford, forty. ... One was a draw! The only draw to-day is the crowd! Listen!

BRING UP CROWD EFFECTS FOR 5 SECONDS.

Cambridge are just a fraction ahead, but both crews are pulling well! ...

BRING UP CROWD EFFECTS FOR 8 SECONDS.

We're showing you more of the race than you would have seen if you'd been on the river-bank--

--yourself, for cameramen are posted at many points along the course. ... Here's how it looked from Hammersmith Bridge. ... Cambridge are leading by a length and a quarter. ... Come on, Oxford! They're struggling hard to regain the lost ground! ...

At Barnes Bridge, Cambridge have increased their lead to about four lengths. ... It's become a procession. ...

Nearing the Winning Post ! ... Oxford are fighting desperately in a hopeless cause. ... Their great effort comes too late !

BRING UP CROWD EFFECTS TILL CAMBRIDGE
PASSES WINNING POST.

They've won ! The Light Blues have pulled it off for the eighth successive year. ... Good work !

They are tired, but very happy. ... After they've put their trusty little boat away, perhaps they'll - er - well, I should be very, very, dry !
