

135532-2

(4). TITLE:- DANGEROUS CROSSING.

Picture:- This is quite a new job for the traffic police. ...
When they espy an --

--aeroplane approaching to cross the road, --

--they halt the traffic.

The planes then have a clear way to their landing-ground...
When the danger of collision between land and air vehicles is past, the road traffic is signalled on by the point duty policeman. ...

The road runs alongside the Grand Central Air Terminal at Glendale, so that planes are very low at this point, whether arriving or departing.

Hundreds of aircraft use this aerodrome, --

--so it's just a commonsense idea to control the -->

--road traffic, and avoid accidents.

None of us will be safe soon, unless we are underground !