TITLE.:- BRITISH MAYORS AT ROME.

Picture.:- The first thing they do on arriving in the Eternal City is to pay homage to Italy's slain at the tomb --

--of the Unknown Warrior. .... The three --

--Mayors are accompanied by civic officials from their various towns.

A group of archaeological pilgrims from Britain are also there.

They visit the famous old Villa d'Este at Tivoli, a few miles out of Rome, and --

--view with delight the beautiful fountains and waterfalls. .... It looks to be -- --a very delightful place for a hot summer's day.

You can't imagine a cooler scene than this - and every inch of it is pregnant with history.

The visitors are duly impressed with the charm of all they see at the Villa.

They'll have plenty to tell their friends in --

--Bath, Colchester, and Dorchester - if they've left anything unsaid on the picture postcards they've sent !
