

(4). TITLE.:- AN AIRMAN'S BRIDE.

Picture.:- "Here comes the bride" - in her wonderful gown of "Angel Skin". Who can deny that she makes as lovely a picture as one could wish to see ?

Within the old Cistercian Abbey at Beaulieu, Miss Bowes-Lyon becomes the wife of an airman, --

--Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton.

(BRING UP WEDDING MARCH AT THIS POINT AND CONTINUE TILL BRIDE AND GROOM ARE OUT OF PICTURE, THEN FADE TO BACKGROUND).

You can't wonder that press-photographers got all excited to get pictures. You'd have done the same if you had been there with a camera !

The bride's retinue was worthy of a film or two !

At Palace House, where the reception was held the happy pair faced a whole battery of cameras,--

--and a very splendid picture they made too !

It's too bad that the Duchess of York couldn't be present. Her Royal Highness would have been proud --

--of her very charming cousin, and her new relation by marriage.

We wish this very delightful couple long life and happiness. Their union ends --

--a "phantom" feud between two noble and historic houses of Scotland.
