

5-194855

(1). TITLE.:- DIGNITY OF LAW.

Picture. :- Halberdiers precede the Lord Justice when he goes to preside over the High Court at Jedburgh,

--and trumpeters herald his appearance from the hotel. It is the ancient way of impressing the populace with the dignity of the law. Another--

--unusual feature is that of a judge inspecting a military guard of honour, - in this case drawn from the Kings Own Scottish Borderers.

We don't often associate British law with fixed bayonets.... Lord Alness has come to Jedburgh --

--to try one major case only. His progress to the Courthouse is marked by the rather startling sight of a presiding judge under military escort !

This is the first time in history that these scenes have -- --been filmed ! His Lordship enters the -- --old Court House, there to mete out British justice in the manner which has become the admiration and envy of the civilized world.