TITLE:- AUTO GRAND PRIX.

Picture:- They've got ten-hours of racing ahead of them.....
It's just as much a test of endurance for man, as for machine.

Two-hundred-thousand people watch them speed round and round the famous track, passing and re-passing each other,
as opportunity occurs.

There are six British entrants, but they are not showing up too well. Sir Henry Birkin --

--loses much ground by the need for adjustments.
Lord Howe had --

--to waste a lot of time at the pits, too.

The Frenchmen, Chiron and Varzi, are not seriously challenged --

--throughout the race, and come in to win at a spanking pace. ...

They did twelve-hundred-and-fifty eight kilometres in the ten hours. Good !
