

TITLE.:- PRINCE IN THE WEST.

(7).

Picture.:- Prince George employs the very latest means of travel. He is touring the Cornish estates of his brother, the Prince --

--of Wales. Heavy rain is falling as the seaplane comes to rest, --

--and His Royal Highness lands on Banjo Pier. Here a very cordial welcome awaits him. The Royal Visitor passes through -- --a double line of ex-service men and others lining the pier.

West Looe then claims the Prince's attention. Proceeding on foot, His Royal Highness goes to the new--

--sea wall, there to lay a stone in commemoration of his visit. The --

--ceremony is short, due to Prince George's other engagements for the day.

The stone will be a permanent reminder of this red-letter day in the history of this quaint little Cornish town, for it bears the inscription "This stone was laid by H.R.H. Prince George".
