TITLE.:- IRISH RIFLES.

Picture.:- The boys are going to Ireland for their annual training, --

--so their Honorary Colonel gives them a final inspection before --

--departure. His Royal Highness has completed sixty years --

--in that capacity. He has always shown deep interest in the regiment's welfare, --

--and every single man has a sincere affection for the grand old British soldier.

J

Headed by their pipers' band, the London Irish Rifles make a brave show as they march past the Duke, --

--who expressed his pleasure at their efficiency.He said they had become one of the smartest --

--of the London Battalions of Volunteers, while at the same time maintaining --

--their close connection with Ireland. May His Royal Highness --

--still be Honorary Colonel of this fine body of men in yet another ten years from now !
