

TITLE.:- HIGHLAND GAMES.

Picture. :- Enormous crowds are attracted by the promise of a good program of Scottish sports and pastimes. "Bonnie lasses" and "braw laddies" combine to produce one of those spirited entertainments for which Scotland is famous. T' th' skirl o' th' pipes, a clever trio dance the sword dance, as only those who come from Bonnie Scotland can dance it ! I should think one of the worst things a Scot could have is an attack of gout ! You may be sure something is going to happen when they start to throw their weight about. It weighs twenty-two pounds, and wants some handling. THAT'S what "parritch" does !

Flat-iron throwing is nothing to this ! They are always willing to learn, so they are particularly interested in a display of Ju Jitsu -- the Japanese art of self-defence.... It is something new to the Highlanders, who are more used to throwing hammers and cabers than -- OUCH ! -- than men ! I hope he enjoyed that one !

Ah weel its a grand way of spending the dee, and spending a few bawbees too, ye ken !
