

(4).

TITLE.:- HOME FOR HEAVYWEIGHTS.

Picture.:- It is a fine looking place, with some --
--sharp reminders to keep Jumbo in -- --his place ! The door slowly opens, --
--the youngsters are on tip-toes with excitement,--
--and the new tenant strolls in to take up his abode in the spacious new quarters.

No animal should be allowed to make its --
--debut in this inauspicious way, --
--so his keeper tells him to "Curtsey to the ladies and gentlemen !" He does it quite gracefully, too !

Don't stay down, old chap ! You're not a -- --heavy-weight boxer ! Up ! That's more like it !

Jumbo is in playful mood to-day. He -- --thinks his trainer is entitled to a rise ! The trainer seems to think so, too !

These big fellows are a constant source of -- --amusement. Hullo ! a neighbour ! ...I don't -- --know the sex of the one next door, --
--so I can't tell you if Jumbo is whispering "sweet --
--nothings" or trying to borrow a lawn-mower !

He's getting some kind of answer, anyway.

Let's hope it is satisfactory !

What's this ? Football ! - with each player a five-thousand pounder !

Arsenal will have to look out !