

138105 - C

(9).

TITLE.:-"POSEIDON" HEROES.

Picture.:- A little over two years ago the Poseidon was launched at Barrow-in-Furness, and was ordered to China last December. She was --

--equipped with the Davis apparatus, which makes it possible to escape --

--from a sunken vessel by acting as an artificial "lung" to the submerged man. Thus he is --

--kept alive as he rises to the surface - and back to "life !"

The Poseidon met disaster - and to-day the survivors of her crew arrive at Plymouth aboard a P. & O. liner, --

--and the Mayor of Plymouth extends them a warm welcome home....

If there can be a bright spot in so tragic a story of the sea, it lies in the splendid courage of the crew of the submarine, and particularly that --

--of Petty Officer Willis who coolly engineered the escape, by means of the artificial lung, of --

--a number of his shipmates, who were imprisoned with him in the sunken vessel --

--a-hundred-and twenty-feet under water. They all had a terrible experience and we're glad to see them home.

An epic of the sea - up to the best traditions of the British Navy.

AND SO, FOR THE PRESENT, WE LEAVE YOU !