

1384-C

(1). TITLE:- LAND SHIPS.

Picture:- The "Land Ships" are all ready, "in line ahead", for action. XXXX

The little destroyers lead the way to "Rough Down", that section of Salisbury Plain which is to be the scene of activities. XXXX With magnificent -- --assurance of impregnability, the greater ironclads "come up" - "all set" to show how "battles are won and lost".

The contrast between the tiny "whippets" and the big "heavies" is very striking. XXXX Dignity and Impudence ! XXXX

The "canned" Land Navy sails into action over the rolling turf of the Plain, intent on proving that Britannia's rule is not restricted to the boundless main.

The battle wages fast and furious, until the imaginary enemy force turns tail and runs for shelter. XXXX Do they want any more ? XXXX No tanks !
