

(6). TITLE.:- GLIDING.

Picture.:- Gliding has captured the imagination of the French people. XXXX Many turn--

--out to see the sail-plane aces show what they can do with their engineless craft. XXXX

They glide away from Mother Earth with the grace of swallows, but this particular one does not beat any records for time spent up in the air. XXXX

Now Marken, the Manerole Cup winner, "goes off" for a flip. XXXX His handling of the glider is masterful, and a long flight is expected -(he has flown one of these things for hours on end) - but not to-day ! He also decides that the weather is not in his favour - sensible fellow !

You'll always find someone more daring than the rest !XXX In spite of warnings about the treacherous state of the wind, this chap goes up. XXXX He looks safe enough as he "casts off". XXXX But before very long he too thinks "terra firma" quite an attractive place. XXXX So down he comes, after only a short flight. There's trouble ahead ! -----Effects-----
The pilot--

--is not hurt, thank goodness ! XXXX But his machine is in a state of "having seen-

--better days !" XXXX He should clear that away before the dustman comes along !
